

Scavenger Hunt (with a Twist)

A great exercise while walking to or from a nearby park, wetland, lake or garden. This activity will increase powers of observation while walking.

Background: Parents/supervisors - walk the trail ahead of time and find objects - specific leaves, a flower, specific rock, moss, anything of interest. Participants will compare and contrast objects and learn new names for objects in nature.

Materials:

Collected objects, container.

Instructions:

- Bring a sample of each item back with you and place in some form of container.
- Have each participant pick one or more objects to look for on the trail.
- All players try to find each object(s) during the walk.

Variation:

- Bring small objects with you and hide them on the trail ahead of time
